Dear Maly Danino,

This is to appreciate your and Nitzan experts contribution to training of Lithuanian teachers and education support specialists and to invite you to deliver a two weeks training on the 10th – 23th of December 2016 in Vilnius, Lithuania.

The participants in their feedback comments pointed out quality and practical usefulness of the training and expressed their hope to further improve their competences in using the methodology introduced by your team.

Lithuania attempts to constantly improve quality of inclusive education and provide opportunities for special needs education specialists, social pedagogues, school psychologists to sharpen their professional knowledge regarding consulting of teachers and parental coaching. Therefore taking in to consideration the Lithuanian policy direction – towards quality inclusive education – I have a great pleasure to invite you personally, Anat Katznelson, Tova Gur Arieh and Rami Gertler to held two weeks training (intensive workshop) on the 10th – 23th of December 2016 in Vilnius, Lithuania.

The goal of the workshop's is to train 20-25 practitioners to become certificated trainers in the area of parental coaching method, which was scientifically proven by Nitzan in Israel. It is planned that the trainers from national and regional centres will start cascaded trainings for other in-service education support specialists in Lithuania by the next year. The event is going to be organized by the Ministry of Education and Science of the Republic of Lithuania together with the Embassy of Israel in Lithuania and in close cooperation with the National Centre for Special Needs Education and Psychology. The Centre will provide a venue for the training and be in charge for other arrangements related to your visit.
